

BEACH SURVEY IS ORDERED Plan Is Up To Legislators Now

Harbor Commission Passes Resolution Calling For Speedy Action

The project for the restoration of Waikiki beach to the people of Honolulu, to whom it rightfully belongs but who are barred from it illegally by private property owners, was put on an active, working basis by the board of harbor commissioners at their regular weekly meeting yesterday. The board, by the adoption of a resolution proposed by James Wakefield, the originator of the scheme, directed the chairman to have surveys made and estimates of cost prepared for submission to the legislature, which will be asked to make loan fund appropriations to cover the expense of the undertaking.

"It is now up to the people of Honolulu and to the legislature," said Commissioner Wakefield at the conclusion of the meeting. "If the people approve of the project and want it carried through, it is for them to make known to the legislature their wishes in the matter."

The project contemplated by the harbor board divides itself into two parts, one the construction of a promenade along the beach above Fort De Russy, coupled with the dredging out of the coral along the beach to make a fine bathing beach; the other the dredging out of the Kakaako and Kewalo flats and the filling in of the swamps of those districts as well as of the Waikiki swamps.

Since last week when he first put forward his big scheme, Commissioner Wakefield has revised it, providing now for a promenade walk along the beach instead of a boulevard driveway. As he explained it outside the board room, there does not seem to be any real necessity for a driveway along the beach. That could not be of length sufficient to make a commanding boulevard, and would cost more than the proposed beach walk or promenade. The opening up of Kakaako and its junction with Kalaheo Avenue, Mr. Wakefield thinks, would provide an excellent boulevard.

Plans For Promenade
A promenade instead of a boulevard would insure against accident by automobiles and other vehicles, and would be much less objectionable to beach residents.

The scheme as projected now calls for a broad concrete walk above high water mark, constructed partly on a strip of land along the beach and partly over the water. It is proposed also to dredge out the coral that now makes much of the water useless for bathing purposes.

The completion of this scheme would give the people of Honolulu, and their visitors, a Waikiki beach of which they could well be proud and of which tourists could not complain, as they do now. This part of his project Commissioner Wakefield placed before the board in the form of the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolution Adopted
"Resolved: That the chairman of the board be authorized and requested to have a survey made of the beach at Waikiki, starting from the easterly boundary line of federal government property, known as Fort De Russy, to the easterly boundary line of the property now controlled by the City and County of Honolulu, and used for a public bathing resort; and from high water mark out to low, low water mark, to a point ten feet out makai from high water mark, with the purpose in view of constructing a beach walk for the use of the general public. Said walk to be built on reinforced concrete piles, with reinforced concrete slab, the bottom of the slab to be three feet above high water mark."

"The general course of the walk to follow the property line of the Territory of Hawaii, viz: high water mark, and to extend ten feet makai from high water mark; also to prepare an estimate of the cost of construction of such a walk to the length and dimensions given; for the purpose of submitting same to the forthcoming legislature for such action in the matter as it may deem proper to adopt."

The harbor board is equally urgent that the reclamation of the swamp lands of Kakaako, Kewalo and Kewalo be proceeded with as little delay as possible, and to that end it adopted an earlier resolution proposed by Commissioner Wakefield, as follows:

RESOLVED: That the board of harbor commissioners consider it of vital importance to the Territory of Hawaii, and particularly to the City and County of Honolulu, that the work of reclaiming all swamps and insanitary lands and property in the Kakaako, Kewalo and Waikiki districts be proceeded with, and proceed forward to its consummation with as little delay as possible; and

WHEREAS: The senate and congress of the United States have placed all shores, and shore waters of the Territory of Hawaii under the control of the board of harbor commissioners; now

Resolved: That the board of harbor commissioners hereby resolve that the dredging of Kewalo Bay be made a part of the general plan of the Waikiki and Kewalo reclamation scheme, by using the material dredged from the bay for the purpose of filling the swamps and insanitary lands in said districts; and in pursuance of said scheme the chairman of the board of harbor commissioners is hereby authorized to have a survey made of Kewalo Bay from the property owned by the Bishop estate at Kewalo to the westerly boundary of the federal property known as Fort De Russy to determine; First: The yardage of material to be removed from Ward Street to Fort

JAMES WAKEFIELD, harbor commissioner, and father of the plan to give Waikiki Beach back to the public.

De Russy from high water mark to a point 100 feet out makai, to a depth at low, low water of three feet.

"Second: The yardage of material to be removed from above named point, (100 feet out makai from high water mark) to the reef, and to a uniform depth at low, low water of seven feet.

"Third: The yardage of material to be removed at the reef to provide a channel 150 feet wide, and 20 feet deep at low, low water at a point to be determined later, but generally in a southwesterly line with Ward Street.

"Fourth: To determine the approximate cost of said dredging."

To Determine Cost
"Fifth: To determine the cost of constructing at the foot of Ward Street a concrete wharf for the use of fishing craft for the receipt of supplies, and discharge of cargoes.

RESOLVED: That immediately on receipt by the board of harbor commissioners of the above information, that the same be placed in the hands of the Governor of the Territory of Hawaii, with the request that the estimated financial requirements be incorporated in his expense budget for the Waikiki reclamation project."

Commissioner Wakefield yesterday said that he was sure that the work provided for in this latter resolution would more than pay for itself in the greatly enhanced value of the property affected. In addition it would provide a continuous bathing beach from the foot of Ward Street to Fort De Russy. For 100 feet out the depth of the water would be from three feet at low tide to four or four and a half at high tide. Beyond it would be seven feet deep all the way out to the reef.

In addition, there would be provided a harbor for the fishing fleet that now does much to congest Honolulu harbor. Entrance for the sampans and other vessels would be provided by the channel of 150 feet width and twenty foot depth to be dredged out through the reef.

There are now, Commissioner Wakefield points out, but three places between Fort De Russy and the public beach where the public can reach the water without trespassing on private property or availing themselves of the tacit consent of privately owned hotels. One of the three is the stretch near Kaplanian park where Kakaako Avenue skirts the ocean. Another is a narrow right of way near the Queen's property and the third is a ten foot right of way just west of the Halekulani hotel.

Access To The Beach
With the laying of the beach promenade, however, Commissioner Wakefield says, other rights of way would be condemned to give the public more ways of access to the beach.

Thus far the only persons who have been heard to oppose in any way the scheme for the public benefit proposed by the harbor board are a few of the Waikiki beach property owners who have already manifested their selfishness by the placing of obstructions in the way of travel up and down the beach and by making access to the beach as difficult as possible.

In the opinion of one of these persons, loudly voiced, the harbor board's plan is "rank socialism."

"We own the beach property and we don't intend to surrender any of our rights," said this person. "Mr. Wakefield's scheme ought to be killed, and it will be killed, too. We don't propose to have people running up and down our beach. So there, now!"

Private Pool Sign Down
Fortunately for the general public, the private property owners are few in number, and not all of them are so equally blind to their own welfare and the rights of the people as the one above quoted, who is one who has done most to make things unpleasant for the bathers. So far as is known now, the bathers will not be troubled by the efforts to put up a sign "private pool" in the water bounding his property, and even he took the sign down and ceased to forbid use of his ocean when his attention was called to the fact that the sign was going to get him in bad with the authorities.

While owners of property along the beach will undoubtedly be somewhat inconvenienced by having their privacy disturbed by bathing children, satisfied tourists, happy bathers and a general public enjoying in the restoration of its rights, the harbor board feels that the best interests of the many demand the sacrifice of the few.

SEEK BERTH FOR GREAT NORTHERN

Captain Foster Told By Board To Duck Her Where He Thinks Best

It is more than probable that the Great Northern on her next visit to Honolulu will again have to berth at Pier 16, as she did last time, to the great disgust of her agents, captain and passengers.

Captain Foster, the harbor master, appeared before the board of harbor commissioners yesterday afternoon and wanted to know what would be the board's attitude in regard to moving the German interned steamer Pommer to the incomplete Pier 8. Foster said he had no other place to send the Pommer, as it would not be safe to send the big vessel outside at this time of year. By moving her to Pier 8 room would be made at Pier 7 for the Great Northern. A letter had been received from Fred L. Waldron, Ltd., agents for the Great Northern, asking that she be berthed at Pier 7.

Commissioner Church was decidedly opposed to moving the Pommer to the incomplete wharf, and promptly moved that the Great Northern be sent to Pier 16. "Entirely too much is made of the fact that Pier 16 is not in a pretty part of the town," he said. "I can't see that any particular damage has been done to the tourist traffic, the Great Northern, or anybody else, by sending her to Pier 16. It's a bugaboo."

Commissioner McClellan seconded Church's motion. Commissioner McCarthy vigorously opposed it. If it were necessary to send the Pommer outside to make room for active traffic, he said, he would support it.

Church was strongly opposed to this. "We might want more boats to haul sugar some time," he said. Harbor master Foster said that there was a bare possibility of his being able to make room for the Great Northern at Pier 7, but the chances were poor. Finally Church withdrew his motion and the harbor master was instructed to let the ship berth where he thought best in regard to serving the big tourist boat.

GIRLS TAKE LEAVE OF KAWAIAHAO WITHOUT GOOD-BYE

Eight girls, ranging in age from eleven to fourteen years, went on strike at Kawaihae Seminary last Monday night and took leave of the Maunaloa Valley institution without saying good-bye. Four of the girls have been returned to the institution; the others can't go back even if they want to.

Quite recently a little Portuguese girl was sent to the seminary by Judge Whitney. The judge refused the parents of the girl permission to visit her at any time other than at the time of her departure. The arrangement suited neither the girl nor her parents. The latter made several vain attempts to see their daughter. The girl herself grew homesick and plotted with seven other Hawaiian and part-Hawaiian girls to take French leave of the institution.

After dinner on Monday, and while he was ringing for study, the eight girls slipped away, some of them going home and some to other places. As soon as the departure of the eight girls was discovered, a hue and cry was raised, with the result that on Tuesday morning two of the truants were caught back by the probation officer and two more were returned by the parents of girl friends to whose homes they went.

Four of the girls will be taken back by the seminary authorities, but the remainder will have to face a charge of incorrigibility in the juvenile court.

BODY OF TOURIST TO BE SENT BACK HOME

After a delay of two days a cable gram was received yesterday by the local lodge of Elks to ship the remains of G. L. Ott, a tourist who died suddenly on Monday, back to his home in Hartford, Conn. The message was received too late to send the body back on the Wilhelmina.

Ott, who was a retired business man from the nutmeg State, died of apoplexy on Monday afternoon while conversing with a friend in the reading room of the Elk lodge headquarters. The body was removed to the William's undertaking establishment where it was embalmed for shipment to the mainland.

The body probably will be shipped to the coast on Tuesday next on the Matsun liner Manoa.

SOLONS OF OAHU DOUGGE BOOZE LAW

Caucus Discusses Proposed Charter But Takes No Binding Action, Says Senator

Another of a series of informal discussions of bills expected to come before the legislature was held last night by members of the Oahu delegation. All the Oahu representatives and senators were present except Senator Shingle and Senator Charles F. Billingsworth.

Last night's subject was the charter drafted by the commission, which must go to the legislature for approval before it can become effective. Senator Billingsworth said that the discussion was informal and tentative, and that no binding action was taken. The charter discussion has been dropped, he said, and will not be taken up until the meetings of the committees on Oahu affairs of the two houses.

It was difficult to get expressions of opinion from the men, Senator Chillingworth said, but Representative Lorin Andrews was heartily in favor of it, as would be, and the presence of Harry T. Murray, water works manager, indicated that he had been called in to argue for the charter before the delegation.

Senator Chillingworth was asked regarding the proposed bill for regulation of the liquor traffic, which would do away with bars but would permit hotels and restaurants to sell.

"They all fought shy of it," he said. Next Wednesday's meeting will be devoted to such subjects as the cash basis, free sewer, franchise tax, belt and improvements, general territorial taxation. Both Republicans and Democrats attend the meetings, and there will be nothing binding in attendance was stated; that is, the meetings will be no action, as of a caucus, which would hold the individuals.

CHINESE FOUND DEAD ON FLOOR OF STABLE

His Nostrils, Eyes and Throat Full of Bran

Cheong In, a Chinaman, 49 years of age, was found dead early yesterday morning in a stable in Moiliili. His head was resting in a pall of bran and his nostrils, eyes and throat were full of bran. The stable is on the premises of the Ing On rice plantation, where Cheong was employed. The body was discovered by a Chinaman going to get his horses. It was at first thought possible that death might have been due to violence.

At an autopsy held yesterday afternoon, it was found that the man died from natural causes. His heart was found to be in a weak condition and he was in a bad way physically, beside. The police are of the opinion that he had either fainted and fell with his head in the bran, or that he had a stroke, and in his convulsions drew the bran into his throat and nose.

POLICE COURT FINES TARDY CORPORATION

In the police court yesterday morning, the Macfarlane Company was fined $100 by Judge Monarrat, on a charge of failing to present an annual statement of its affairs to the territorial treasurer.

Roy Benedict, charged with heedless driving to the danger of life, was fined $50 and costs. The complaining witness was Frank Coombs. Defendant litened Coombs' car in Kikapa Gulch last Sunday, and then broke records scorching to town.

Thomas Rignola, charged with heedless driving, was given a suspended sentence.

Alex Harris, charged with threatening to kill William Larson Jr., was discharged.

John Anderson, drunk, was fined three dollars and costs, and John Reents, a profane person, was assessed a fine of five dollars and costs.

Thirty-four Chinese, charged with gambling, had their cases stricken, the excuse being lack of evidence.

HOW NEW RING STAR WAS NEARLY HOOKED

Les Darcy Accepted Match But Found Could Not Leave Australia

How Willie Ritchie and Leonard Hicks, Chicago hotel man and friend of the former lightweight champion, missed a golden prize in landing Les Darcy is a story that has just come to light, says Harry B. Smith in a racing story he tells in the San Francisco Chronicle of January 15.

Hicks was mentioned, following the arrival in Gotham of Darcy on a Standard oil tanker, as a possible manager for the Australian, but the despatches said nothing at all of the months of work Hicks and Ritchie devoted to the task of persuading Darcy to come to America.

Indeed, it was the hope that Darcy intended to line himself up with the Hicks-Ritchie combination that caused Willie to remain in San Francisco long after he ordinarily would have left for the East.

As far back as a year ago, Hicks took the initiative in a movement to bring Darcy to the United States. Ritchie was then in New York City, but Hicks got in touch with him, explained the proposition and offered Ritchie a half-interest in the managerial end.

"Sure, I'll come in," said Ritchie, and the deal was closed.

At first they offered Darcy round-trip tickets for two and $30,000 for three fights.

Darcy Proposition Accepted
Les replied that he thought he should have $7000 ($35,000) for the work indicated, and the Americans, after consultation, agreed, with the provision that Darcy arrive not later than November.

Letters and cables passed between him, and twice tickets for Darcy to see were deposited in Sydney. At last, just as it was figured the deal was as good as closed, came a letter from Les, knocking their plans on the head. "Darcy was expected to be able to leave six months by making a deposit of $5000," explained Ritchie. "He was also to give a small percentage of his receipts to the war relief fund. The reason we wanted him to come in November, as we stipulated, was to have him in the United States the best part of the year. All our correspondence was carried on in the name of Hicks, but I had a half-interest. We called him as well, asking him to get a leave of absence that would permit his remaining here a full six months."

"Then came a letter, saying that he could not leave. Darcy said he had been made, but that they were voting on conscription, and he was afraid he couldn't get away at all. In my own opinion, Snowy Baker had a lot to do with forcing Darcy to remain and his secret leaving of his own country."

"After that letter, we heard no more from Darcy personally, and nothing at all until the story came out that he had departed overnight. Naturally, we thought he would come by way of San Francisco, and the reason I hurried in San Francisco was to be able to go to Honolulu to meet Les and talk business with him."

"When Darcy's arrival in New York was heralded, Hicks talked with me over the long distance telephone from New York and wanted to know if he should go to New York. I advised him to do so, and he had a chat with Les. The latter proved a fine fellow, representative of what we had done, and promised Hicks that we would be given a full opportunity to bid for his services. Hicks wanted me to rush east at once, and in a couple of weeks I'll be on my way."

"Of course, it's doubtful now whether we shall be able to land Darcy, but I want to take on some fights there and there's always the off chance that Darcy might consider himself under some obligations to us."

Ritchie had a great scheme, provided Darcy had come this way. It was his intention to stage an exhibition at the Civic Auditorium, Darcy boxing Willie, and the entire proceeds to be turned over to the war relief fund of the Allies. This, Ritchie believed, would have gone far towards averting the criticism against Darcy for leaving Australia when his country needed him.

Ritchie Now Has a Follower
When Ritchie does leave for New York, which will be about the first of February, he will not only take his departure with the intention of boxing himself, but as manager of George Thompson, the San Diego bantam weight.

Thompson has asked to be taken under the managerial wing of Willie, and Ritchie has agreed.

"George worked with me when I was training for Dundee," said Ritchie, "and I know he is a clever boy. I think I can groom him for a match with Pete Herman, who recently defeated Kid Williams for the bantamweight title. Thompson, first of all, would like a four-round match in San Francisco, and if we can land it, it may delay our departure."

"So far as I am concerned, I haven't made any matches. I have never agreed to box Jack Britton, claimant of the welterweight title, but that would probably be the logical card, and if the terms are satisfactory I am willing to take him on and see if I can't win another championship."

Wyoming is the only State in the Union where big horn sheep may be killed. The States of Nevada and Texas and the province of Manitoba are the only places where antelope may be hunted. Moose may be killed in nearly all of the Canadian provinces, and in Wyoming under a special license fee of $100.

CARNIVAL TENNIS SEASON LOOMS BIG

Stars From East and West To Meet Mid-Pacific Artists In Honolulu

According to news received yesterday in Honolulu, William M. Johnston, national tennis champion, and John Strachan, rated among the best ten players in the country, will leave San Francisco on January 30 and arrive here in the Sonoma on February 5.

The two great wielders of the racket will be featured of the Carnival season tennis tournament in Honolulu and will be pitted against local stars such as Al Castle, Eklund, Billy Hoogs, Jr., and others.

The Carnival tournament will begin on February 9, thus giving the visitors several days in which to lose their sea legs and get accustomed once more to terra firma, the latter being an important part in the tennis game.

In addition to the California artists, two Easterners (Throckmorton and Church), who are now playing their way in Manila and other Oriental courts, will be on hand, it is believed. They are expected to arrive in the Shinyo Maru on February 6 from Japan, the day after the Californians are to get here.

This will afford Honoluluans the novelty of seeing tennis pairs from the East and West in action against each other in the Mid-Pacific. There may be still other famous men in Honolulu at the same time who will raise a racket. The woman end of the court game during the Carnival season will also be interesting, for among others expected are Miss Janet Starr, who is rated among the best in the East, and possibly Mrs. Balin of New York, another woman player of note. Local woman tennis stars will compete also.

A Coronado (California) despatch of January 16 says that play began in earnest there on that date in the annual tennis tournament of the Coronado Country Club, in which appeared some of the country's foremost tennis stars. In an exhibition match, only one set of which was played, John Strachan and William M. Johnston defeated H. Van Dyke Johns and Roland Roberts, 7-5. Johns and Roberts are two players who may possibly make up their minds to come to Honolulu for the Carnival tournament.

HOLLINGER MAKES GREAT DISCOVERY

Mark H. Evans, Malihini From Des Moines, Iowa, May Be Roped In As Umpire

He's here.
Honolulu ball players and fans have been looking for an umpire for some time. Not because those on hand cannot fill the bill, but Capt. Norris Statten expects to go away shortly, and there would be a vacancy to fill. He's Mark H. Evans, and he's from Des Moines, Iowa, where baseball umpires make a thing or two.

Mr. Evans was discovered last night over the telephone at the local Elks' club.

Earlier in the day an All-Chinese bucker approached H. Franklin Hollinger.

Ben Told Of Discovery
"Ben, I've got a friend who can umpire," the A-C supporter said. "Can you fix him?" meaning, of course, if Hollinger could arrange to have the friend agree to handle the indicator.

"Shoot him along," Ben replied. So when you fans go down to Athletic Park Sunday afternoon to take in that Mun Lun School benefit game between the Chinese and the Young Wreckers of Schofield Barracks, and you see a malihini calling balls and strikes, you will know him—Mark Evans, of Des Moines, Iowa.

"I'm here simply visiting, and expect to remain three or four months, and I like baseball," Mr. Evans said. "Seen some of it back home, and now and then have been honored with the title of 'umpire.'"

"I have been apprised of the flattering overtures being made in my behalf, and if I handle the indicator Sunday, just tell them I will be there with the rules and goods. A Hawaiian, a Chinese, a Soldier Boy, and even a player on Pareira's nine, will all be the same to me, and if I don't operate according to Hoyle, why the only thing to do is to turn me out of the ball park."

Hollinger and Evans will probably meet today and there will be a conference. Nothing so far is official.
